REPLY COMMENTS OF
CD BROADCASTING, INC.

1. CD Broadcasting, Inc. ("CD Broadcasting") replies to comments filed on January 26, 1998 by KM Communications, Inc. ("KM"). Both parties have filed competing applications for FM channel 255A at Parkersburg, Iowa.

2. Craig Donnelly, the sole principal of CD Broadcasting, has been active in efforts to secure a construction permit for this FM channel since 1994. He has petitioned the Commission to allot the channel to Parkersburg. He is a local broadcaster. CD Broadcasting owns and operates FM station KLMJ in nearby Hampton, Iowa. Mr. Donnelly manages that station on a daily basis and would similarly direct the operation of the Parkersburg FM station. He is neither a minority nor female.

3. KM holds a number of construction permits and existing station interests, including low power television interests in the Chicago area. Its headquarters are in Skokie, Illinois. KM also is an FCC application filer. An amendment of its application for Parkersburg filed in September 1996 (attached) lists 18 pending applications for new television station construction permits and ten pending applications for new FM station construction permits.

4. The Commission's rulemaking notice, at ¶¶86-91, refers to Supreme Court and Court of Appeals decisions adverse to according favored treatment of minorities and women, asking commenting parties who support such favored treatment to address the subject with concrete innovative ideas, sustainable in court litigation. KM's comments, at 9, (a) acknowledge the constitutional difficulties faced by the Commission in order to grant such favored treatment, (b) nonetheless ask for favored treatment both under KM's claimed minority and female ownership, but (c) offer no suggestions as to how the Commission might overcome those constitutional difficulties. Neither do other commenting parties.¹ The fact of the matter is that the law of the land does not allow such favoritism.

5. There is a category of favoritism which avoids the dubious foundation of race or gender, and which lies squarely in the main stream of federal communications law and policy dating back to the beginnings of the Commission itself, i.e., localism. With the proliferation of broadcasting conglomerates following passage of the Telecommunications Act of 1996, the need to support localism in broadcasting is greater than it has ever been. Comments have been filed urging the Commission to accord favored treatment under the auction rules for bidding parties who would be locally owned and operated. E.g., Comments of Tri-County Broadcasting, Inc. filed January 26, 1998 at 7-8. CD Broadcasting supports such a concept.
